THE BARHYDT-EHRMANN HOME

1121 South 6th Street

For over fifty years, the Barhydt-Ehrmann home has been one of the most attractive houses in Terre Haute. Graced by low gabled windows, arched entrances, marble and tile fireplaces, and a large sleeping porch, the house has served as a reminder of the way of life in the early 20's.

The house was built for Theodore Barhydt in 1921 with some of the same materials and based on the same design as the Indiana Theatre. However, Barhydt did not live long after completion of his home. He died in 1925, and four years later his widow, Henrietta, married Albert Ehrmann.

After Albert's death, Mrs. Ehrmann lived in the house alone until her own death in the early 1950's, at which time the house was sold to Dr. Frank Welch. Five years ago the Welches sold the house to the Fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta of Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology.

After the decorators completely refurbish the home to their own style and taste, the boys will again return to make it their active fraternity dwelling.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The Women's Service League of Union Hospital welcomes you to our first Decorators Show House. We hope you will enjoy the tour of this lovely home.

We have had many projects since the organization was formed in 1953. Some of our projects are strictly services for the patients and their families. We have contributed $145,669.00 to the hospital during this period.

The dedication of our members and friends of the Women's Service League and of Union Hospital has made this particular project possible.

FOYER

Interior Arts
4812 South 7th Street

designed by:
Nan Nesting
Ann Hartman

In the foyer - entering through the main door, we are reminded of an old country manor house. The walls are faced with dark oak mouldings and paneling. The arched ceiling could be interesting in itself but has been enhanced by plaster castings to invoke a Moorish feeling. Two mirrored doors are covered with a shirred open woven fabric in Sapphire blue. The mirrors behind reflect light and color. The fabric helps soften the foyer area. An unpainted Parson's Table is used as the focal point here. The covering, bold red and blue plaid vinyl coated paper, picks up the hue of the deep red carpet and also helps to impart the manor house feeling.

Hanging above we find a graphic print which repeats the color scheme. Accessories include a small white ginger jar lamp with pleated shade, a blue ramikin and Swedish glass pieces: decanter set, pitcher with wheat, kruet, paper weight and a piece of slag glass.

At the side of the table hangs a misty blue seascape with chrome frame. To complete the area is a Portuguese pewter bucket brimming with lush artificial rhododendron leaves.

Stylish dignity is given the tiny powder room with the use of golds, black and white with the occasional flashes of red and sparkling crystal.

LIVING ROOM

Smith Alsop Paint and Varnish Company
630 North Third Street

designed by:

Trudy Hinkle, N.S.I.D.

Peggy Harker, N.S.I.D.

Music and intimate conversations by the fireplace are the focal points in this large elegant room. Spicy copper, sunflower, and chocolate brown add the warmth necessary to make this room inviting.

Comfortable furnishings, arranged in distinct groupings, are color cued to the predominate design of the drapery and window seat fabric that has been inspired by an oriental influence. Also, note the luscious white carpet, with overlays of original oriental throw size rugs. This, along with an oriental touch in accessories, makes a very pleasing room in which to entertain or just relax at home.

THE GRADUATE ROOM

Decorating Unlimited

designed by:

Patricia J. Gudgeon

Carmen Tiffin

The Graduate Room was originally the conservatory of the home.

Today it serves as a place of relaxation, and for informal sessions. It has been decorated with this in mind. Though masculine in design and colour scheme, it has an interchange of pattern and furniture styles to give interest.

The furniture and appointments are moderately priced, with imaginative use of materials from the Terre Haute area.

DINING ROOM

Sears
Honey Creek Square

designed by:

A. J. Darbutt

D. T. Ridgway, Jr.

"Plaza Del Lago" strides through centuries of tradition and brings the best of Old Spain to the twentieth century dining area. The high-backed chair developed in the Italian Renaissance and quickly spread to Spain. Our imposing chairs, with canework backs, strap-detailed posts and velvety seats gather congenially around a spacious trestle table. Something of special interest is the finish; an 18-step process is used to achieve the subtle beige color layered on this furniture and touched here and there with accents of rust. By way of contrast the dining table top is of hardwood veneers, polished to reflect fine china, crystal and a lovely Gorham centerpiece.

The dramatic color tone for this room is set by the "Andrea" carpeting in copper. "Andrea", 100% nylon pile, is the best of everything in one carpet styling . . . slightly tousled like a shag, thick and dense like a plush, yet gently patterned to add a touch of excitement. The beautiful colorations on the furniture repeat the color of the carpeting magnificently for that well planned look.

The walls and ceilings are done in neutrals. Draperies are of a dull lustre, antique satin and accented by top treatments interpreted in the old-world feeling. The fabric is a heavy matelasse in a stripe of crewel-like woven flowers alternating with a leafy stripe. The rust and copper flowers reinstate the colors set forth in the carpet and furniture.

The quiet elegance exuded by the decor of this room would be certain to enhance dining pleasures.

THE PANTRY

Stableton's Ornamental Iron and Gift Shop
2323 Lafayette Avenue

designed by:

*Ruby Stableton
Marilyn Stott*

This difficult small space has been designed in European style. High ceilings and old style cabinets, have not been removed but updated in an interesting fashion.

The addition of shelves, sheer panels in gold, orange, green, and pink, to mask the glass doors on two sides of the kitchen----light hearted touches in apothecary jars, cooking wine decanters, and cooking accessories, transforms this bleak little space into a warm and workable area.

Expanding metal at the window conceals a fan in the upper portion, and the same material covers open shelves. Massed greens at the window frame an outdoor view of the garden.

Opening off the dining room, the pantry carries out a harmonious decorating trend.

UPPER HALL AND GALLERY PASSAGEWAY

Interior Arts, Inc.
4812 South 7th Street

designed by:

*Ann Rutledge Hartman
Nan Nesting*

The Upper Landing and Hall has been decorated and furnished as a small library-morning room. The use of the library paper is a breakaway from the typically traditional architectural design and color of the house to a more contemporary feeling with the use of vivid reds and blues combined with warm wood tones. Antique red woodwork is an interesting accent.

The small, round skirted table of deep blue, topped with a square of striped red and blue linen adds a touch of charm and repeats the colors from the library shelves. A dark-stained ladder back chair makes the area comfortable for a morning coffee. The Safari china and gold bamboo cane flatware and cheery basket arrangement enhance the setting. Tastefully chosen accessories and the use of ferns and rhododendron greens complete the pleasant, comfortable spot where one can relax and view the gallery of lovely prints in the grand staircase.

A gallery passageway leads to other bedrooms and bath. The red, white and blue striped wallpaper adds warmth and creates a perfect background for an interesting collection of wall hangings. The antique red woodwork, used in the library area, is repeated in this hallway.

Our main objective was to give this room a natural feeling with warmth and personality. Masculine would be an unliberated word but well describes our feelings for this occasion.

Without labeling the room with a particular period or style the decorator can project his own personality and create a harmony with period and contemporary furnishings combined.

Interior Arts

4812 South 7th Street

designed by:

Ann Rutledge Hartman

The area at the top of the back stairway leads to still another room tucked away at the back, and to a bath. The rustic look of the stairposts led to the selection of a spiced oak vinyl paper panelling on the lower wall, with woodwork antiqued in the same warm color. The upper wall of soft Mimosa Yellow is broken with wide stripes of the spiced oak vinyl to give the look of rustic beams and posts at the ceiling and corners of the hallway. Rectangular panels of moss and red floral paper, applied to the upper walls, adds warmth and interest, and presents an earthen background for the collection of unusual wall hangings. The large container filled with rhododendron greens adds eye catching interest to this back passageway and stairwell which leads down to the family kitchen.

BOUTIQUE AND COFFEE HOUSE

Women's Service League of Union Hospital

Old brick, sand plaster and beamed walls create the background for gifts and accessories available in the Carriage House. Calico covered tables and rough sawn shelves contain a profusion of wicker, tin, glass, brass and pewter especially chosen to provide the 'finishing touches' to make your home a showhouse.

The Boutique is an extension of the Union Hospital Gift Shop. The Gift Shop, in Union East, is open daily. Staffed by 49 volunteers, it offers necessities and pleasures for patients, employees and guests. All proceeds are included in the Women's Service League contributions to the hospital.

In the Carriage House, you will also find a cozy corner in which to rest and enjoy light refreshments before browsing in the Boutique.
